

How Lena Lane Bryant Changed the Shape of Fashion

Lena Lane Bryant was a pioneering fashion designer who revolutionized the way women dressed. She was one of the first designers to create clothes specifically for plus-size women, and her designs helped to change the way that women thought about their bodies.

Bryant was born in 1873 in Chicago, Illinois. She was a large child, and she was often teased about her weight. However, Bryant refused to let her size define her. She was determined to find clothes that made her feel good about herself, and she eventually decided to create her own line of clothing.
